Daylight Saving — a Local Debate

"What time is it?" may soon become an argument instead of an interrogation in Hope. The commandant of the Southwestern Proving Ground has just announced that effective next Monday, July 14, the Proving Ground personnel and all their operations will go on Daylight Saving Time. So a week from now they'll be calling it "8 o'clock in the morning" when to you and me it will be just plain 7 a. m. What is civilian Hope going to do about it?

Arkansas Skeet Title, Columbus, Won by Smead

Bill Smead of Camden emerged from a four-way tie Saturday to win the all-gauge championship at the Arkansas Skeet Shoot held at the Wilson Skeet club near Columbus Friday and Saturday, July 4-5.

Hundreds of spectators crowded the edges of the three shooting fields during the two-day meet. It was said to be the largest and most successful meet in the history of Arkansas skeet-shooting.

The 1942 meet will be held at Batesville, also on July 4-5.

Eight trophies were offered for the 1941 meet at the Wilson Skeet club. The all-gauge championship cup contested found Bill Smead of Camden tied with three others at 197 targets out of a possible 200. Tied with him were Julius Petty, England; V. V. Lewis, Little Rock; and E. A. Price, Garland City.

1. Mr. Smead broke 50 straight on the shoot-off, and topped the all-gauge cup.
2. Mr. Price, Garland City, got the undercup cup.
3. Mr. Smead also won the award for being high over all 300 targets.
4. W. L. Davis, Texarkana, Ark., was the professional winner, with 194 of 200, on the all-gauge.
5. Jim Wilson, Columbus, broke 50 straight to win the 28-gauge cup.
6. Mr. Smead took a third prize when he won the 20-gauge title with 50 straight.
7. The ladies' championship went to Mrs. E. A. Price, Garland City, with 36 out of 50.

CRANIUM CRACKERS

Defense Strikes
Strikes are big problems in the speedup of America's defense effort. Don't strike out on these questions prompted by the defense strike situation.

1. What two major aircraft companies have had strikes in their California plants during the past year?
2. What two motor companies recently had strikes in the Detroit area, and in what big automobile corporation was a threatened strike averted?
3. What do these men have to do with defense strikes: James Dewey, John R. Steelman, Cyrus "Ching" Clarence Dykstra.

4. What action taken by the National Selective Service Board was a factor in helping settle and retard strikes?
5. What is a "wildcat strike," and what are "man days"?

U. S. Naval Forces Arrive in Iceland

Agreement With Iceland Government to Relieve British There

WASHINGTON (AP)—(P)—Forces of the U. S. navy arrived in Iceland Monday, in accordance with an understanding between President Roosevelt and the prime minister of Iceland. Naval units moved in to supplement and eventually replace British forces stationed there.

President Roosevelt informed congress in a special message of this far-reaching step in America's foreign policy.

German Occupation Feared
The president said the United States could not permit the occupation by Germany of a strategic outpost in the Atlantic to be used as an air or naval base for eventual attack against the Western Hemisphere.

At the same time he said this country had no desire to see any change in the present sovereignty of these regions.

Iceland was a sister kingdom of Denmark which eventually became virtually independent.

Three Threats Mentioned
Roosevelt said the occupation of Iceland by Germany would constitute a serious threat in three dimensions.

Against Greenland and other northern portions.
Against all shipping in the north Atlantic.

And a threat against the steady flow of munitions to Britain, which is a matter of a broad policy clearly approved by congress.

There was no indication of just what naval forces had moved into Iceland nor whether they would be supplemented by troops.

It was not indicated whether similar action might be taken at other points.

While President Roosevelt has hesitated at drawing a definite boundary line for the Western Hemisphere some administration officials have said that Iceland was outside the Western Hemisphere. The line of demarcation, he has been said, passed between Greenland and Iceland.

It was declared by President Roosevelt that it is imperative that all approaches to the Americas and strategic points should remain open and free from all hostile activities and threats.

Does Hitler imagine for one moment that the people of England, the plain ordinary people of England, who have lived in cellars, been torn by bombs, fought and died from Dunkirk to Crete, seen their homes and churches reduced to smoking ruins, would tolerate overnight a government which proposed "Let's forget all that now, and go grumbling against Russia, arm in arm with the men who have so brutally injured us, and who have proved so utterly faithless?"

The British people, the people of the Dominions, the remaining free people of all countries are not like that, to be played on like a great organ, and emit a tune at will in any change of key some tinpot master chooses overnight.

He may be able to tell the German people on Monday, "This is the enemy; hate him, fight him!" and on Tuesday, "No, that is the enemy; hate him, fight him!" But he can't tell that sort of thing to free people anywhere in the world.

That such a monstrous manipulation should even be attempted is an insult to every man and woman in the world who still breathes the air of freedom.

The regular July meeting of Hope Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night at Hope city hall.

The membership meeting is held on the second Tuesday of every month, and is limited to one hour—so all members are urged to attend promptly. President Vincent Foster said.

Elmer Purtle Sent to Chanute Field

Private Elmer L. Purtle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie G. Purtle of Route 2, Hope, has been sent by Special Order of Lieutenant-Colonel George M. Palmer, Post Commander of the Air Corps Basic Flying School at San Angelo, Texas, to the Army Air Corps Technical School at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., where he will pursue a course in airplane mechanics.

Private Purtle won this appointment in an open competitive examination given to all men at this station.

Final Approval for Airport

Spencer Wires That Washington Has Okehed It

"The Washington office of the WPA has approved the Hope airport project and it will probably be approved by the president this week," United States Senator Lloyd Spencer telegraphed The Star Monday from the national capital.

The municipal airport project was approved by state headquarters of the WPA June 19, and approval by the federal headquarters in Washington leaves presidential approval as a mere legal formality before actual development of the local field is begun.

The project calls for a total expenditure of $87,647, of which the WPA would contribute $62,638 and the City of Hope $25,000.

Hope purchased approximately 600 acres of land between the north corporation line and the south boundary of the Proving Ground for about $12,000 and the loan of city equipment and other facilities is expected to expend this $12,000 land contribution to the total $25,000 contribution without further outlay of municipal cash.

Construction of the Proving Ground has expedited the municipal airport through official channels, since the municipal port would have to serve many official and private planes, and possibly airlines, drawn to this city by reason of the federal arms project.

It was feared from using the strictly military airport to be constructed inside the Proving Ground at a cost of about $1,300,000.

Likewise repulsed, according to the Russians, were German attempts aimed at forcing the Dvina river line, near Polotsk, northwest of Orsha and thrust into the Ukraine in the vicinity of Novogrud, Volynski and into Bessarabia, at unspecified points.

South of Porut in the Lepel region where the Germans were seeking to outflank the Berezina river defense in a drive to Orsha, the invaders were said to have taken a defensive stand following a counter attack against motorized troops.

A sea communique reported a battle between Russian destroyers and "enemy" ships at the mouth of the Riga bay in which two "enemy" destroyers were reported sunk. An "enemy" submarine also was sunk in a mine field in the Gulf of Finland, the communique said.

No substantial changes were reported overnight on the battlefield where the Red army reported that counter attacks in some places have thrown the Nazis on the defense.

Claim Red Line Broken
BERLIN (AP)—(P)—The Germans said Monday that Nazi forces had broken the Stalin line, Russia's main fortification against invasion from the west, and captured Cernauti, capital of Sovietized Bucovina.

The claim that the Stalin line, stretching along western Russia, had been broken was made by DNE, official German news agency and followed a German report that Hitler's legions were jockeying for positions with Soviet troops for what Berlin hinted probably would be another vast battle to smash Soviet resistance.

Hitler headquarters reported gains in the Bucovina and Bessarabia provinces which were wrested from Rumania by the Soviet Union a year ago.

German and Rumanian forces in Bessarabia are in a "progressive advance" after repulsing a Red army attack, the communique said.

By reaching Cernauti, beyond the Carpathians in north Bucovina, just across the frontier from Russia proper, the communique said that Axis forces had reached the upper Dniester river, thus on the heels of reports that Nazi panzer units were in the White Russian capital.

Just north of the southern front in the Galicia area the high command said German forces were pursuing the Russians on a broad sector across the Seret river east of Lwow and almost at the border of the Russian Ukraine.

North of the Pinsk swamps German forces are pressing toward the Dniester and Dvina rivers and in the north battle area operations of the German and Finnish troops "continue on schedule," the communique said.

Without locating the hole in the Stalin line DNE said the Germans were still advancing in the Volynia area west of the Ukraine capital of Kiev.

The Russians failed to hold the modern casemates after the Red army rearward was crushed, the communique said.

Director Compere said that his attention had been called to the fact that some men in the National Guard in federal service who have been discharged because of expiration of their service have not registered. They should do so immediately, he declared.

Reports Differ on Red-German War Monday

Russians Say Germans Using Dummy Tanks; Nazis Claim Line Broken

MOSCOW (AP)—(P)—The Red army declared Monday that the German drive into Russia had been thrown back by counter-offensives in five sectors and asserted Adolf Hitler is using tanks made of wood and canvas to pad out the Nazi panzer columns.

The vehicles are self-propelling and carry machine guns, officials said.

The discovery was made by Red Army scouts observing the column moving up to the front in an unidentified sector.

"Using field glasses, the leader of the scouts was amazed," it was said, "when he noticed the body of one of the tanks gave in under the pressure of an elbow of an officer who leaned against it." Observation revealed that of 20 tanks only one was genuine, it was reported.

When night came the column was destroyed, the communique said.

Without linking the tank story to claims of successes, the Red army said the German offensive was blocked on the whole front.

On the northern sector of the Russian fortifications, the Stalin line, a night-long battle was said to have broken up a tank-pointed attempt by motorized Nazi units to break through the Ostrov region toward Pskov, anchor point of the Stalin line.

"In night fighting our troops inflicted a heavy defeat on the Germans," the communique said.

Other Thrusts Checked
Likewise repulsed, according to the Russians, were German attempts aimed at forcing the Dvina river line, near Polotsk, northwest of Orsha and thrust into the Ukraine in the vicinity of Novogrud, Volynski and into Bessarabia, at unspecified points.

Army Returns to Memphis to Apologize to Girls

1,200 Soldiers Pay for Whistling to Short-Clad Golfers

MEMPHIS (AP)—Boisterous greetings to short-clad girl golfers brought some 1,200 soldiers back here along the 150-mile route from Camp Robinson to make amends Monday.

Several units of the 35th division were called back to Memphis on orders of Lt.-Gen. Ben Lear, Second Army commander, who was golfing on a Memphis course when the troops rolled by. Several girls in shorts also were playing, and many soldiers were said to have whistled and called to them.

General Lear, Army sources said, considered the conduct of the soldiers as a "severe breach of discipline," stopped the column and remonstrated with officers, then directed the convoy to continue to Camp Robinson and be sent back here at once.

The group had no sooner reached camp than they were ordered to re-tel and return to Memphis, where they would face General Lear Monday afternoon.

A report that they would be required to leave the vehicles and walk at least part of the way back to Camp Robinson was making the round in Army circles.

Officials would neither deny or confirm the report.

McNutt Hostile Toward Japan

U. S. Economic Stake in Orient Very Great, He Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt said Monday that the American stake in Asia "was far too real to be abandoned in order to appease the political machine which happens to be in power in Japan."

His address was emphatic in serving notice that this country would resist any military barrier between America and the Far East.

McNutt warned that German conquest of Russia might bring Japan into outright military collaboration with the Axis and said China and the U. S. must take action now to prevent the "unification of the totalitarian battlefield across all of Europe and Asia."

"The time has come to act," he declared, "events have clarified the issue and brought us into a new unity."

"China and the U. S. must share in putting down this 'old disorder,'" he said.

Land Permits Still Required

Maneuvers to Be Held Here Regardless of HDQS

Landowners and tenants still are requested to sign and return to the Army the forms granting it permission to cross local land during the maneuvers in August, the Army Land Board announced Monday.

Even though Hope should not be the headquarters city the maneuvers still will be held in southwest Arkansas, and permission must be had to cross any and all land required to be crossed during the maneuvers, the land board pointed out.

Guardsmen to Register Also

Must Register Even Though Not Liable to Service

Men who have served in the active National Guard are required to register immediately upon expiration of their service, even though they are not, under certain conditions, liable for further peacetime training and service under the Selective Service Act.

That fact was stressed Monday by Brig. Gen. E. L. Compere, Director of Selective Service for Arkansas, who said that all such men should present themselves to a local board for registration immediately upon their discharge.

"The act is specific," said Director Compere, "in requiring registration of men within the age group of 21 to 36 who have served in the National Guard. Men who were members of the active National Guard on October 16, 1940, and who have completed six or more consecutive years, are relieved from liability for peacetime service and training, but they must register."

Those who were members of the National Guard and have served less than six years are relieved neither from registration nor training.

Director Compere said that his attention had been called to the fact that some men in the National Guard in federal service who have been discharged because of expiration of their service have not registered. They should do so immediately, he declared.

Proving Ground to Move Up One Hour on July 14

Huge Construction Camp to Be Constructed Within a Week

Beginning next Monday, July 14, Army offices and construction work will be placed on daylight saving time here in an effort to utilize every possible means to speed up construction of the War Department's new $15,000,000 Southwestern Proving Ground, about 1 1/2 miles north of Hope, the commanding officer of the project announced Monday morning. The move will set up time in this area one hour, 8 a. m. Daylight Saving Time being 7 a. m. Central Standard Time.

City Action Uncertain
There was no statement Monday as to whether civilian government here and local business houses would also adopt daylight saving time.

Officials of Proving Ground officials have been set temporarily in the Hope high school until permanent quarters can be constructed. Approximately 400 men will make up the construction headquarters staff.

Major Werner C. Strecker of the Quartermasters Corps has been named construction quartermaster of the Proving Ground and will remain here until the project is completed.

To Build Huge Camp
Work on a huge construction camp which is to house 2,000 workers will begin immediately, with completion expected in a week, the commanding officers said. Actual work on the Proving Ground will begin as soon as the camp has been built.

Completion of the Proving Ground is expected within six months. Approximately 800 men will be stationed there permanently. There will be about 150 permanent buildings on the Proving Ground and the adjoining $1,300,000 army airport.

Federal Judge Harry J. Lemley last Tuesday signed an order in Texarkana giving the War Department immediate possession of 43,468.27 acres of land north of Hope on which the project will be located.

As previously announced all labor will be handled through the Arkansas Employment Bureau, South Walnut street, across from the postoffice, with preference being given to Hope and Hempstead county workers.

The Callahan company, which was awarded the contract for constructing of the Proving Ground, indicated that a peak of 4,000 workers would be reached.

AAA Payments Are Listed Here

Late J. O. E. Beck Got Largest Check in Arkansas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The late J. O. Beck of Hughes and his son, State Senator J. O. E. Beck, Jr., received the largest AAA conservation and parity price adjustment payments in Arkansas in 1939—a total of $33,432.91—the Agriculture Adjustment Administration told Congress Monday.

The elder Beck, killed in a car wreck this spring, was paid $22,897.39 and his son received $10,535.52. The largest single payment, $30,935.07, went to the Arkansas penitentiary.

Payments of more than $1,000 went to 1,900 farmers. Many payments of less than that amount were made and have to be reported, the AAA said.

"All AAA payments, regardless of size," Paul H. Appleby, undersecretary of agriculture told Congress, "represent specific performance by cooperating farmers."

Payments are made to farmers for adjusting plantings of soil depleting crops for which acreage allotments are established and for carrying out soil-building practices to improve the land.

Parity payments, made for the first time in 1929, were intended, he said, "to bring the farmer's returns nearer to a parity with farm income for the 1910-1914 period."

Other payments in Arkansas in excess of $10,000 were:

Twist Bros., $26,387.65; R. T. Kuhn, Marion, $20,202.96; Cromer Bros. Osceola, $17,391.87; Lawrence Bros. and Co., Driver, $18,850.93; Danner Planting Co., Clarksdale, $17,297.15; Tillar Mercantile Co., Tillar, $12,736.84; California Lands, Inc., San Francisco, Calif., $16,470.23; R. C. Branch, Pecan Point, $16,337.69; Joel A. Pugh, Portland, $15,981.26; Hugh M. Brinkley, Bruins, $15,662.26; W. P. McGeorge, Pine Bluff, $14,306.33; Mallory Farms, Chatfield, $14,068.65.

R. A. Pickens & Son Co., Pickens, $13,954.42; C. Alexander, Scott, $13,146.53; Willey Planting Co., Altheimer, $13,087.42; L. E. Burch, Hughes, $12,827.19; Mary Fathauer, Helena, $12,801.20; C. SERIAL STORY

ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE

BY DONNA ASHWORTH

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Settled in Farmington, Little—now Ann Marshall—goes to church, meets Ken's mother and dislikes her, she expects Ken to call, but he has to take his mother visiting and to check again. Ann sees herself sitting alone, while Ken escorts his mother.

COUNTRY CLUB SURPRISE

CHAPTER VII

AT last Farmington had recognized Ann. Slowly, fearfully, as if afraid it might do the wrong thing, it had taken her in. Neighbors had called. She had been invited to parties. And Ken had made it evident for all to see, that he was interested in her. Only his mother did no more than greet her at church. So far, the much-sought-after invitation to tea had not arrived.

"That's just Mother, darling," he explained. "It takes time."

"Time," snorted Ann as she looked into his eyes. "I came here the first of February and now it's March. Have you told her yet that you expect to marry me?"

"Darling," he protested. "You know I haven't. She would be horrified to know I could be engaged to a girl I had known less than two months. I have to go slow. I want her to like you and approve of everything we do."

"Which reminds me, I'm taking you to the Country Club, darling, to the opening spring formal. You will get to know everybody you have met. There are a lot of members in the smaller towns around here and then they invite people from Richmond. It really is quite an affair. After that you won't need to worry about what people are going to say."

"I'm not worrying," she laughed up at him as the car slid along through the March night. "The moon was full and it made the landscape into a fairyland. The faint fragrance of spring was in the air."

"I have you and whether your mama likes me or not doesn't make any difference. I cared at first, because she was so snooty and all, but I don't now, because I don't think she would ever like any girl you were interested in. She'd always try to keep you from marrying her, and she wouldn't think anybody who didn't have an army of illustrious ancestors was good enough for you anyway. So I don't really care any more."

"I'm glad, darling, because I can't change her, but one of these days she'll unbend all at once and ask you to tea."

Ann snuggled down against him, her head against his shoulder. Why argue about Ken's mother? Why argue about anything? She was beside him, his arm was about her shoulders, they were driving through a perfect moonlit night, and that was all that mattered. "It may be too late when she does," she laughed as she spoke. "I might have another engagement. But forget about her. Kiss me and tell me you love me and let's think about the dance and what a good time we are going to have."

ANN planned for the dance eagerly, bought a new dress for the occasion. As she sat before her dressing table that night, giving a final touch to her make-up, Sally stood back and surveyed her.

"You look lovely. I do believe you get more beautiful every day. And say what you will, this rest has done you a world of good. I hadn't realized how tired you were; now you look as fresh as a spring day."

"Thanks. I hope Farmington thinks so," answered Ann as she stood up and for the twentieth time looked at the full view reflection of herself to see that everything was right. Her hair was rolled high in front and hung in a mane of gold about her shoulders. Her dress was white satin, a slim gleaming sheath that revealed her white throat and shoulders, that fell in a swirl of folds about her ankles, with a lovely jeweled belt and clips.

She hadn't realized that she could look so young. Her eyes were shining. She had never looked better in her life.

"She caught up her velvet wrap. "Bye, darling. Wish me luck."

She ran down the steps to meet Ken. This was as she had dreamed, the wide curving staircase, the stately hall, Ken waiting, watching her as she came toward him.

"You're lovely, sweet," he caught her as she reached the last step. "Lovelier than I've ever seen you. Everybody will be crazy about you."

The car sped over the highway, into the Country Club driveway. The echo of laughter floated out from the clubhouse, the music of an orchestra, gay voices. So this was Farmington's society at play.

IT seemed strange to be dancing with Ken. She had danced with him only once before.

"Do you like to dance with me?" she teased, her eyes laughing up into his. "Remember I'm the nation's best."

"Like the breath of thistle-down. I'll have to struggle to hold my own. See all those men looking at you. I can feel a rush coming on."

Squeeze on Little Business a Big Worrry

WASHINGTON — Certain sections of the government are beginning to worry about what's happening to the small business man, and by small, they don't necessarily mean small.

The units they fear for are the dependents, the manufacturers who are not directly tied up with some big chain or corporation, or who can't get a piece of the big corporation's business through sub-contracting.

At a conference of field officers of the Defense Contract Service held in Washington the other day, Peter R. Nehemkis, Jr., one of the OPM brass hats, went so far as to say that 10 entire industries whose supplies have been curtailed must either close down or enter a new line of production. For a time, as the wartime economy gains momentum, small businesses will be hit to such an extent that unemployment may actually go up and the number of idle machines actually increase, he said.

Mr. Nehemkis has been picking up dead cats ever since, for many of the dollar-a-year men in the Office of Production Management don't think things are going to be that bad, and they started throwing things at the colleague who spoke out of turn. Nehemkis did put the finger on the critical condition of companies making aluminum products, for instance, or the companies doing nickel and chrome plating. With their material supplies cut off by defense work, they're up against it. Plants in the New York City area have been particularly inconvenienced this way.

That is the predicament of the small businesses squeezed out by priorities, but there is another angle that has attracted attention of the Justice Department anti-trust division—the cases of small businesses squeezed out by monopolistic competition from big business.

Squeeze on Little Business a Big Worrry

WASHINGTON — Certain sections of the government are beginning to worry about what's happening to the small business man, and by small, they don't necessarily mean small.

The units they fear for are the dependents, the manufacturers who are not directly tied up with some big chain or corporation, or who can't get a piece of the big corporation's business through sub-contracting.

At a conference of field officers of the Defense Contract Service held in Washington the other day, Peter R. Nehemkis, Jr., one of the OPM brass hats, went so far as to say that 10 entire industries whose supplies have been curtailed must either close down or enter a new line of production. For a time, as the wartime economy gains momentum, small businesses will be hit to such an extent that unemployment may actually go up and the number of idle machines actually increase, he said.

Mr. Nehemkis has been picking up dead cats ever since, for many of the dollar-a-year men in the Office of Production Management don't think things are going to be that bad, and they started throwing things at the colleague who spoke out of turn. Nehemkis did put the finger on the critical condition of companies making aluminum products, for instance, or the companies doing nickel and

chrome plating. With their material supplies cut off by defense work, they're up against it. Plants in the New York City area have been particularly inconvenienced this way.

That is the predicament of the small businesses squeezed out by priorities, but there is another angle that has attracted attention of the Justice Department anti-trust division—the cases of small businesses squeezed out by monopolistic competition from big business.

Attention has already been called to concentration of defense orders placed with major manufacturing companies. In the rush to get defense started, it was perhaps natural to turn to the companies with the biggest plants. Also, if the major industrialists had the best organization to get the business, it was natural for them to get the orders. If, however, this combination of circumstances, plus monopolistic practices, is used to freeze the independent manufacturer out of the defense effort, then the economic balance is thrown out of gear.

Thurman W. Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, sees four dangers to the little man from such a set-up.

First, the system of priorities control may be used to prevent the small manufacturer from getting supplies.

Second, the small manufacturer may not be allowed to share in the national defense production, to the detriment of both the little man and defense.

Third, the independents may be caught by artificially fixed prices and distribution costs as in the recent Rocky Mountain region lumber and cement cases where little men not belonging to the ring and following its policies could not get a foothold in business.

Fourth, the threats from big labor—a few of the unions which, like big business combines, dictate the amount of labor, materials and tools that the small businessman must use.

Good Man Hard to Find

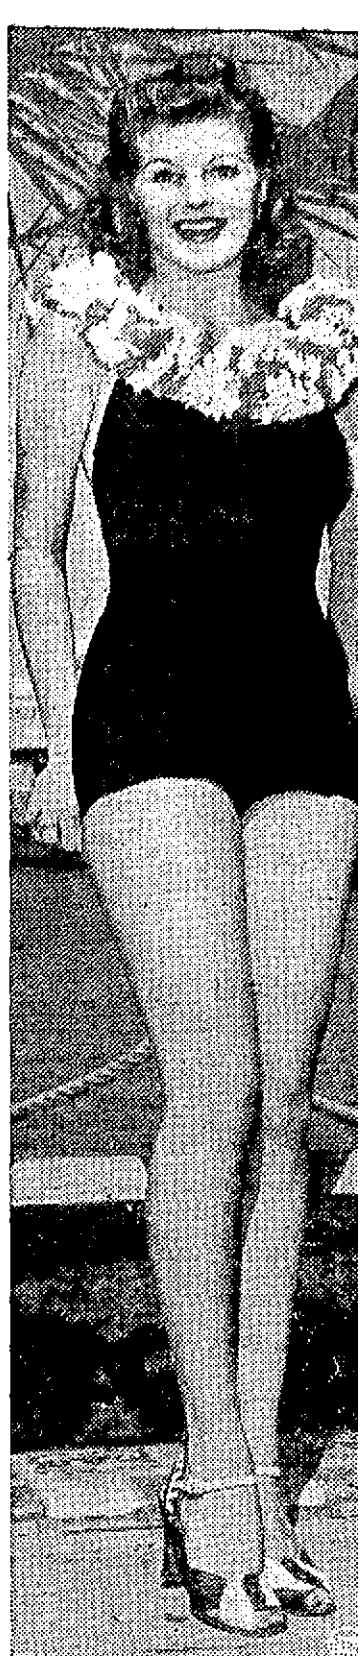

It is to protect little business from hardships like these that the anti-trust division proposes to set up its new section. A program of this kind has never been attempted before.

Finding the right man to head it, an economist with contacts among the independent businessmen and the small businessmen's associations, is one of the first problems. There will be no formula for operations, and no speech-making about what all can be done, until the problems of little business have been surveyed and studied.

To get at the problem, Arnold is willing to receive complaints from small businessmen who have been subjected to squeeze plays in the defense effort. He admits frankly that he cannot begin to answer, individually, all complaints received. He expects to get a sizeable proportion of grievances about which nothing can be done, but out of the mass of correspondence the anti-trust division does receive, it hopes to be able to find out what the problems of the little businessman are in this period.

When the new organization is set up, Arnold hopes that it will be a friend of the little businessman in the long halls of government. Big business has not. Anti-trust division hopes it can fill the gap. Its work in enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law is now beginning to be known generally. It is in cases where violation of that law puts the little businessman at a disadvantage that the anti-trust division will get in its first and best hits.

Peru-Ecuador Fighting Ends

Two-Day Flareup Between South American Nations

QUITO, Ecuador — (AP) — A two-day flare up of border fighting and raids between Peru and Ecuador was reported to have died down Monday.

Ecuador was charged with political and military aggression in the century-old frontier dispute.

Advices said there had been no fighting since Sunday night.

These sources said Ecuador would send no reinforcements to the front because frontier detachments and local reserves could handle the situation.

(Peru press dispatches denounced Ecuador for "aggression," saying they were trying to start a scandal with border fighting that would upset the Americans.)
